FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASEGrowers Learning About Improving Profitability, Performance at 2019 Soybean Management Field Days

LINCOLN, Neb. (August 9, 2019) – Farmers can see their checkoff dollars at work next week when Nebraska Extension and the Nebraska Soybean Board's annual Soybean Management Field Days return Aug. 13–16. Hosted at a different farm in the eastern half of the state each day, the event runs 9:30 a.m.–2:30 p.m. daily featuring field tours and one-hour tent presentations from University of Nebraska researchers and industry consultants. Complimentary admission and lunch are provided.

Topics will range from production costs and policy changes to cover crops and weed control. Specifics regarding farm locations, presenters and presentation topics are available online at enrec.unl.edu/soydays.

WHAT: 2019 Soybean Management Field Days

WHERE: Tuesday, Aug. 13: Fellows Farms Inc. near Sargent
Wednesday, Aug. 14: Tim and Angie Labenz Farm near Pilger
Thursday, Aug. 15: Ross and Judd Boeckner Farm near Plymouth
Friday, Aug. 16: Lynn and Joyce Neujahr Farm near Waverly

WHEN: 9:30 a.m.–2:30 p.m. each day

WHY: To show growers insights from checkoff-funded research and discuss topical domestic and international industry issues.

WHO: Nebraska Extension sponsors the event while the Nebraska Soybean Board provides additional support.

About the Nebraska Soybean Board: The nine-member Nebraska Soybean Board collects and disburses the Nebraska share of funds generated by the one-half of one percent times the net sales price per bushel of soybeans sold. Nebraska soybean checkoff funds are invested in research, education, domestic and foreign markets, including new uses for soybeans and soybean products.
